Mobile phone

Whether you are staying in Germany for a short time or a longer period, these tips will help you:

Your mobile phone plan in Germany

In all cases, in Germany, SIM cards are sold separately from the phone, so be sure to have your phone “unlocked” before you come here. Otherwise, you won’t be able to use it with a German mobile phone plan.

Mobile phone Germany prepaid plans overview

Most of the SIM cards can be obtained in supermarkets, or local stores for around 10. They come with no minimum costs and no minimum commitment. Most of them bill 9 cent per SMS and per minute. This will probably be your easiest and fastest option to start with.

- Aldi Talk (by Eplus): to be purchased at Aldi only
- O.Tel.O (Vodafone): to be purchased at Media Markt, Saturn, Euronics
- Congstar Prepaid (by Deutsche Telekom): to be purchased in T-Stores , Kaufland, Real and Netto
- Lidl Mobile (Lidl): to be purchased at Lidl only
- Blau (Eplus): to be purchased at Aral, Netto, Real, Rossmann
- Edeka Mobile (by Vodafone): to be purchased at Edeka only
- Tchibo Mobile (by O2): to be purchased at Tchibo only

Please note that if you order and activate your sim card online, you will need to go through an identification process with a Meldebescheinigung and your passport before you can use it. Each provider has different ways but most of them can do that via connecting you to a special service dedicated to that via webcam, or via a post office.

What if I’m only staying temporarily in Germany?

In case you are only visiting the country for a few weeks, your needs are probably a little different as far as German mobile phone plans go. Although you can still go with prepaid options listed above, you might also consider Lycamobile which has the following advantages:

- You can order your SIM card for free and have it sent wherever you want, no contracts attached
- Customer service in many different languages
- Good rates for national calls and data plans
